47TH ANNUAL

PIONEER 20 DAY 23

HONORING BROWARD'S PIONEER SPIRIT

VOLUNTEER PARK

12050 W Sunrise Blvd, Plantation, FL 33323

NOVEMBER 4, 2023

Broward County residents and visitors will celebrate Pioneer Day 2023 in the city of Plantation. This year, Plantation celebrates its 70th Anniversary!

Pioneer Day is an annual event that recognizes the contributions of Broward County residents who have made a positive impact on their communities through their professional, business, civic, educational, historic, artistic, or inspirational endeavors.

Congratulations to the nominees this year who will be honored in a number of categories that have impacted the community that we live in today. It's important that we celebrate the pioneering spirit as it is characterized by a bold and adventurous attitude, a willingness to take risks, and a determination to succeed despite the odds. It is a desire to make a positive impact on the world and leave a lasting legacy!

Thank you to the Broward County Historic Preservation Board and the Cultural Division for continuing the annual tradition of Pioneer Day as a way to celebrate the rich history and culture of our county.

Happy 70th Anniversary to the city of Plantation. Thank you for hosting Pioneer Day this year!

Sincerely,

MAYOR LAMAR P. FISHER Broward County, Florida BROWARD COUNTY

Welcome to Plantation as we celebrate Pioneer Day 2023! We are delighted to host the celebration this year, which also happens to be the 70th anniversary of this city I love. We gave our employees dark green polo shirts with our city logo, and they have been wearing them proudly. You'll likely be seeing our staff in them again on this special day.

I especially want to thank the nominees, all of whom have had a meaningful impact on their community and Broward County. You not only know our history, you helped create it.

I also want to point out the efforts of the late Betty Cobb of Plantation to promote and support Pioneer Day. Keeping valuable components of our past often takes extra effort from passionate, caring individuals. Betty Cobb was the epitome of such a person.

Finally, a word about our city itself. We are now 70 years old, and are quite aware of our storied history. While the city council and I are committed to doing everything we can for our city, we also realize that we are part of a long-running chain of public servants in Plantation. We are grateful for all of the elected officials who sat on that dais before us, and we intend to keep moving our city in a positive direction.

DEREK T. DAVIS, Chair (Miramar)

Davis is the former Curator of the Old Dillard Museum in Fort Lauderdale, developing cultural and educational programs at a historic schoolhouse listed on the National Register of Historic sites, built as the first public school building for blacks in Broward County. His work includes organizing exhibitions, administering musical concerts, managing collaborations with cultural organizations, facilitating policies and procedures for non-profit fundraising organizations, conducting tours, overseeing website development and managing the museum staff. As a high school student during the period of racial protests in the late 1960s, he wrote a play, "Black Search for the Future" that was lauded, videotaped by Channel 10 and viewed all over South Florida. He's worked for The Miami Herald, the Black Archives History and Research Center, the African American Research Library, and Broward County Schools. He received his Bachelor's Degree in Mass Communications from Florida Atlantic University. Appointed by Commissioner Dale V.C. Holness, Derek Davis serves as a Member of the Board and fills the professional category of Conservation or Curation.

JEFFREY SCHWARTZ, Vice Chair (Parkland)

Jeff Schwartz is the President of the Parkland Historical Society. In this capacity, he was directly involved with creating and burying the Parkland time capsule, scheduled to be opened on the city's 100 year anniversary. He initiated the city's historical marker program, identifying and marking sites as well as educating public visitors, and was critical in getting the city's first book on the History of Parkland, Florida, written and published. A world traveler, he has been to almost 100 countries, for both work and personal enjoyment. He received his Bachelors of Geology from City University New York, York College, and followed up with a Lamont Doherty Geological Observatory Fellowship in Geophysics at Columbia University. Appointed by Commissioner Michael Udine, Jeff Schwartz serves as a Member of the Board and fills the professional category of Historic Preservation.

CITY OF PLANTATION 70TH ANNIVERSARY

The City of Plantation celebrates its 70th Anniversary this year.

With a population of less than 500 and a budget of $1,288, the City of Plantation was incorporated on April 30, 1953.

Frederick Peters moved his family to South Florida in 1931 to escape the harsh Midwest winters. By the end of the decade he had purchased 10,000 acres west of State Road 7/441, which at that time was isolated and far west of any existing development.

The first construction took place in 1947 on East Acre Drive by architect Russell T. Pancoast and builder Chauncey Clark. The idea was to entice people to buy "long acres," which were one-acre lots with 2/3 of the land dedicated to gardens and fruit trees. The city continued to grow throughout the following decades and now has an area of 22 square miles and boasts a population of more than 90,000.

Today Plantation retains its original home town charm, and offers all the amenities of a large city, but with the safety and security of a smaller community.

Community events, parades and holiday celebrations are highlights throughout the year, providing memories that last a lifetime and traditions passed down from generation to generation.

TED ARPIN

One of Fort Lauderdale's original pioneering families, Ted's grandfather JB Arpin the 4th, moved the family from their lumber town in Wisconsin in 1908 after he accepted an offer from Governor Napoleon Bonaparte Broward to be one of the principal drainage engineers in Broward Everglades project.

Arpin and Sons,
"Scientific Sealers of Suaveatte"

Since then, the family has operated the oldest contracting/engineering firm in Broward County known as Arpin & Sons. Ted took over Arpin & Sons with his brothers, Fred, and Donald junior, after their father, Don Senior, passed away in the late seventies.

Ted is known for his structural expertise and acute mindfulness to quality, for the high-end construction industry. He built a solid reputation by completing additions, remodels, and renovations in much of Broward County and many of its city's most exclusive neighborhoods. Ted is also known for having an intense sense of and respect for historic preservation in Broward County. He has completed projects in Monroe, Dade, and Palm Beach counties. Working on many historically designated and significant structures he believes in restoring and rehabilitating. Restoring important historic resources to their original glory.

Because of his reputation he is known as the premier historic preservation contractor by many in South Florida. Some of the more well-known historic homes and buildings are in Islamorada to Port Saint Lucie. We are honored to have his son sit as a Director with Broward Trust for Historic Preservation who brings many of the same qualities, ideals, and the desire to maintain. Thank you, Ted, for all you have contributed to our County, especially your passion for keeping our historic resources alive for future generations to appreciate.

AMY HEYWANG

Aside from her many accomplishments within Broward County (serving as 2017 Broward County Pioneer) her career path is reflective of her dedication.

Amy spent 20 years of employment with BSO dispatching & 911 office. She is an active participant of the Adult Programs, a member of several local Women's groups- including Red Hat Society and a regular volunteer at Memorial Hospital. She also serves on the Senior Advisory Board and the Census Complete Count Committee. She is a great representation of Cooper City as a resident who is active within the community & always willing to give a helping hand.

"Having the privilege to speak with her regularly with conducting resident well-checks during covid-19, Amy has always remained her most cheerful & optimistic self. She even at one point offered her own personal vehicle (wheelchair modified) for anyone needing to use it." - Gina Maggio, Adult Program Specialist.

Nominated by City of Cooper City

COOPER CITY

The City of Cooper City is a municipal corporation created by Special Act of the Florida Legislature on June 20, 1959. Located approximately fifteen miles southwest of Fort Lauderdale, this 8.5 square mile bedroom community has the fourth highest median household income in Broward County. With an estimated population of 30,074, the average age of residents is 32.5 years.

With three elementary schools, one middle school and one high school, as well as several private and religious-affiliated schools, and an abundance of parks, recreational facilities and programs for all ages, Cooper City has long been known as an excellent place to "grow families".

MAUREEN BERK

When Maureen Berk and her husband Mickey moved to Coral Springs in 1972, Sample Road consisted of just two lanes and only one permanent school building accommodated students. Over the next 51 years, the couple lived, worked, and raised their family in the "City in the Country."

Berk served as a Coral Springs City Commissioner, Vice Mayor, and Acting Mayor. Among her many accomplishments, Maureen was able to secure 12 new school facilities, start new school initiatives, and establish the MLK Scholarship which has since award thousands of dollars to deserving students.

Maureen's passion for her community extended far beyond Coral Springs. She was appointed by the Broward County School Board to serve on the Blue Ribbon Committee; she served on the Broward County Site Acquisition Committee, and she was the Past President of the Broward League of Cities. In addition, she is the founder and Past President of the South Florida Cancer Hotline.

Maureen Berk's influence is felt not only through her roles but also through her genuine care for people. Her involvement in various volunteer activities reflects her steadfast commitment to improving the lives of Coral Springs' children and residents.

CORAL SPRINGS

More than 55 years ago, successful Fort Lauderdale builders, James S. Hunt and Joe Taravella of Coral Ridge Properties, had the vision to create a planned city from the ground up that they named Coral Springs. The first land purchase was for $1M for 3,860 acres of green bean crops and cattle fields. To draw interest in the land that was sometimes considered "too far out", they constructed a covered bridge and recruited talk show host Johnny Carson for a land when ABP Historical Society Digital Collection

DAVID NUBY

One of South Florida's own legends from Dania Beach, Fla., Mr. David Nuby was born in 1936. Mr. Nuby's father and family owned 5 acres of land in Dania and sharecropped the tomato fields with his family. As a jazz drummer his career spans from "Jamming" at the Sir John Lounge in the 50's until he joined the Charlie Austin Band where they were the first Black Jazz group to play on Fort Lauderdale Beach at the Boca Key Hotel. Under the direction of Charlie Austin, Dave Nuby is well remembered as the house drummer at the famed Hampton House in Miami. Nuby has played and enjoyed touring with some of the greatest jazz musicians in the world.

He opened and started a company Nu-Black Septic Co., Mr. Nuby keeping up with his musical talents opened up a recording studio next to his office in Dania. Mr. Nuby's septic tank company proudly laid most of Broward County drains when and where there wasn't any sewers. The company has been in operation over 40 years.

CITY OF DANIA BEACH

Dania Beach is Broward County's first city. The historic roots of the first city in Broward County date back to the 1880's, when much of what is now the FEC railroad line was laid through the area. In recognition of this transportation advantage, a pioneer and developer named W. C.

Valentine planned a settlement called Modello and 12 Danish families moved from Chicago to settle there in 1898-1899. Three years later, 30 Danes were recruited from Oconto, Wisconsin to colonize the settlement, and the first home was built by A.C. Frost, for whom a park is now named. When the Town was incorporated in November 1904, its 35 residents changed the name to Dania.

POMPANO BEACH

Pompano Beach celebrated the 100th anniversary of its incorporation on July 3, 2008. It is the second oldest city in Broward County, and the fifth oldest in all of South Florida. Only Key West, West Palm Beach, Miami and Dania Beach became municipalities earlier than Pompano (the "Beach" came later).

Other than Key West, which by the 1820s was already an important port and city, the towns of southeast Florida came into being because of the railroad. In 1896, Henry Flagler decided to extend his Florida East Coast Railway south from West Palm Beach to Miami, opening up land that heretofore had been a virtual wilderness.

LORELEI BOYDEN

Lorelei Boyden was born in Saint Andrew Jamaica and moved to the United States in 1978, where she achieved a BSc in Elementary Education and a Masters in Educational Leadership. She has spent 45 years in K-12 education in South Florida.

"As a resident of the City of Sunrise for over 30 years, a graduate of the Resident Leadership Academy, and CERT member I have renewed awareness of living in the best city in all of the United States. I have lived in other US cities and none compares. I really appreciate the amenities and programs the city offers to its citizens to improve their well being. Working with a variety of people in all sections of the county has enhanced my collaborative skills. Being a professional development facilitator and presenter has honed my communication skills as well as those of community building" - Lorelei Boyden

Nominated by City of Sunrise

CITY OF SUNRISE

The City of Sunrise was incorporated in 1961 by Norman Johnson - an innovative developer whose model homes attracted buyers to what was then the remote western edge of Broward County in southeast Florida. Originally known as Sunrise Golf Village, the City had a population of 4,300 and comprised just 1.75 square miles by 1967.

In 1971, the City, by referendum, changed its name to the City of Sunrise. Through annexation, Sunrise eventually expanded to its current boundaries - encompassing more than 18 square miles and with a populastion of 92,000+.

ANNE FLEMING NAVES

Anne Fleming Naves had a lasting foundation in church, family, education, and love.

"I enjoyed school, and had Special teachers in high school for music and dancing. (Side Note: I Remember the beginning of WWII I thoroughly enjoyed teaching history, Civics, and all Social Studies. I later developed a Multicultural Educational Program (Only 3 in the United States!). I married and had three beautiful children that grew up to be loving adults.

"The most traumatic experience I remember having, is of my uncle, Rubin Stacy, being lynched in Davie on July 19, 1935. It all seems so surreal now – that all of those things happened. Some of my most pleasant and fulfilling memories are those I've had while spending time with my five grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren! They are the BEST MEDICINE IN THE WORLD and will KEEP YOU YOUNG!"

TRAILBLAZERS OF BROWARD COUNTY

Trailblazers of Broward County, Inc.

The Trailblazers of Broward County is an organization dedicated to preserving and promoting local African-American history and achievements. In 2012 the Trailblazers donated to the African-American Research Library and Research Center, a collection of over 50 interviews of African-Americans, most native-born, who presently or formerly resided in the City of Fort Lauderdale.

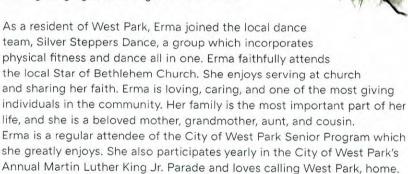

ERMA GLINTON

Ms. Erma Glinton has been living in the Hyde Park/Carver Ranches neighborhood, (which was later incorporated within the City of West Park, Florida), for over 50 years. Erma worked for the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) for 26 years before retiring. Since retirement, Erma has been enjoying various activities she loves including gardening, dancing, sewing, singing, and taking care of animals.

WEST PARK

The City of West Park is Broward County's newest city. The previously unincorporated neighborhoods of Carver Ranches, Lake Forest, Miami Gardens, and Utopia embarked on the road to incorporation in 2004, after the Florida Legislature approved House Bill 1491, which provided for an election on November 2, 2004. Following a vote of 3,400 to 956 for incorporation, West Park was on its way to becoming Broward County's 31st city.

CONSTANCE RUPPENDER

Moving to Fort Lauderdale in late 1983 during a recession I was blessed to find a job right away, and other successes followed. In April 1987, I moved into my home in Wilton Manors and five days later gave birth to my youngest daughter, Samantha.

I taught for one year at Fort Lauderdale High School, then segued into nonprofit work with Easter Seals of Broward County. I had a few different jobs over the years, including a stint at ArtServe. My truly formative years was my time spent working for Fort Lauderdale Historical Society. From 2002 to 2005 I served as executive director for Old Davie School. During my tenure we moved the 1912 Veile House onto the school's site and I got to drive the truck a few feet. It took a couple of days and it was a media circus and just so much fun. And, we saved that amazing house.

I joined the staff of Central Broward Water Control District, where I wore many hats over my 16 years with them. I've served on city boards and learned to see the 'big picture.' I recognize all the valuable contributions made by those Wilton Manors residents who came before me. It has been my pleasure to offer my time and talents for the past twenty-six years; and I plan to help keep Wilton Manors the great place it continues to be.

WILTON MANORS

Before it was named Wilton Manors, the area in which Wilton Manors is now located was known as Colohatchee. This name appeared as the name of a train stop on the Florida East Coast railroad in these early days of Floridian development. The name Wilton Manors was created by a land developer from Georgia in 1925. Ned Willingham led the early development of the town, and Wilton Manors was officially incorporated as a municipality in 1947.

JUDGE L. CLAYTON NANCE AWARD

In 1908, Beau Cummings, a local community organizer and Mary Black Razor, a retired Broward county teacher, recruited and organized sixty sons, daughters and relatives of former black pioneers. Initially they met for the purpose of reliving the past life of blacks in Fort Lauderdale and to make plans for a social event, however after several meetings, it was agreed to expand those efforts to include blacks within the entire county. They named themselves "Trailblazers of Broward County, Inc."

The general purpose is to recapture information substantiating the achievement made by black county residents during the period 1900 to the present and to promote public understanding and appreciation of achievements made.

The Social Science department at Broward County College (BCC) was contacted during the initial organizational period and under the leadership of Dr. Winston Thompson, Associate Dean of the college, is supporting the efforts of the Trailblazers. Along with BCC, the City of Fort Lauderdale's City Commission awarded the group $10,000 in startup funds.

Over the years, the organization has conducted oral history interviews, produced plays, managed the erection of monuments (such as the Sankofa Bird on Sistrunk Boulevard), hosted community events (such as the Dixie Court Family Reunion), and assisted other organizations with documenting the history of Fort Lauderdale and Broward County.

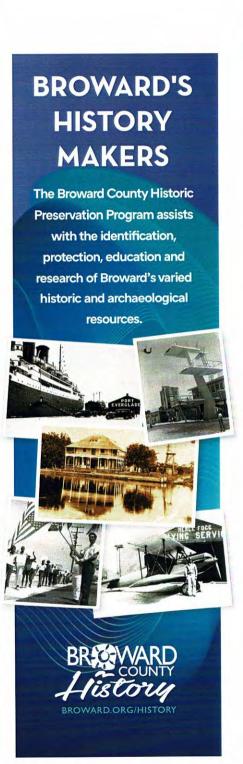

Currently, the Trailblazers meet each month at the Old Dillard Museum.

JUDGE L. CLAYTON NANCE AWARD

The Judge L. Clayton Nance Award has been presented by the Broward County Historical Commission since 1979. Among the past recipients of this award are several prominent local historians, preservation activists, newly created museums, educational organizations, and cultural sites. The Fort Lauderdale Naval Air Station, Ah Tha Thi Ki, the African-American Research Library, the Old Davie School, Broward County Urban River Trails and the Women's History Coalition are among past award winners.

Circuit Court Judge L. Clayton Nance (1924 -1979) was devoted to the study of local history. He spearheaded a drive to create a county-level commission to protect and promote local heritage and, in 1973, the Broward County Historical Commission was founded. From 1972 to 1979, he served as the official advisor to the Commission. He oversaw every facet of Commission activity, from Pioneer Days to the stocking of the research library and amassing of the Commission's map collection. Judge Nance was also the first public defender in Florida and the first public defender elevated to the Circuit Court.

TROY WEEKLEY

Proposed by Town of Davie

Troy was born in Miami, Florida and moved to Davie in the early 1960s. There, Troy and his twin brother (Dan) both became interested in the rodeo and told their father that they wanted to be cowboys. After graduating high school, Troy started working for the family business while participating as a contestant in the Davie Rodeo for almost 20 years. He would compete in several events including bull riding, tie-down roping, and team roping.

The Davie Rodeo initially began in the early 1940s with just a pit area that was fencedoff. Shortly thereafter, bleachers were constructed by locals for more spectators to attend events. The rodeo was again renovated over the years and is presently housed by a 72,000 square foot outdoor roofed facility with a seating capacity for many thousands of people. In 1986, Troy started to assist both his family and the Parrish family producing events at this facility and formed the Five Star Rodeo, and then the Weekley Brothers Davie Pro Rodeo in 2007.

Troy has been instrumental in

CITY OF PLANTATION

Frederick Peters moved his family to South Florida in 1931 to escape the harsh Midwest winters. He purchased 10,000 acres along State Road 7/441, which had been built to connect Miami-Dade to Palm Beach County, and at that time was isolated and far west of any existing development.

City of Plantation City Hall, dedicated in December 1973

Mr. Peters hired noted architect Russell Pancoast to develop a City master plan, which included an ordinance preventing homes next to each other from looking alike, minimum lot size restrictions and separate commercial, industrial and residential zoning districts. The first construction took place on East Acre Drive by Chauncey Clark. The idea was to entice people to buy "long acres," which were one-acre lots with 2/3 of the land dedicated to gardens and fruit trees.

With a population of less than 500 and a budget of $1,288, the City of Plantation was incorporated on April 30, 1953. The first Council Meeting was held on May 11, 1953 in an old feed warehouse near the intersection of East Acre Drive and Broward Boulevard.

Today, in keeping with Frederick Peters' original Master Plan, Plantation retains its original home town charm, and offers all the amenities of a large city, but with the safety and security of a smaller community. Community events, parades and holiday celebrations are highlights throughout the year, providing memories that last a lifetime and traditions passed down from generation to generation.

The City has had a historical society since 1974 and an early version of its historical museum was located at City Hall. A more spacious historical museum opened in 1985, where Plantation preserves its past. Host of prior Pioneer Day events, the City chose to host Pioneer Day 2023, in recognition of its 70th anniversary year.

PIONEER DAY: OUR BROWARD LEGACY

THE PIONEERING SPIRIT, lauded throughout the illustrious history of our country, can never be commended too strongly. There aren't too many places today where one can sit and hear a first-hand account of what the area was like with only a handful of settlers. Yet many in Broward County can still recall what it was like when its one-million-plus population was one-tenth that number. That's what Pioneer Day is all about. It's a celebration of those who can say "I remember when."

County Commissioners, 1915, Broward County, Florida. State Archives of Florida / Florida Memory

And, someday, some of the newer residents may be able to recount, in that same spirit, "I remember Broward County's first Pioneer Day." Shortly after the Broward County Historical Commission was formed in November 1972, Commission Member Sue Phillips suggested that the group establish an annual Countywide fair or show, honoring pioneer residents. It would permit the historical societies and other civic-oriented groups to exhibit their historical and educational materials.

The desired result, of course, was to share information about the area's history and heritage with Broward's residents. With the help of the Mental Health Association of Broward County, the First Annual Broward County Pioneer Day was held May 5-6, 1973, at the American Heritage School in Wilton Manors. Featuring the Seminole Indians, 3,000 people turned out for the premier Pioneer Day. First published in Broward Legacy Magazine
